ABOUT MONGOLIA

Mongolia, with a land area of around 1.6 million sq. km. and a population of about 3.29 million is the world's most sparsely populated country. The land ranges from desert to semi-desert to grassy steppe, with mountains in the west and south-west. Arable land is estimated to constitute only 0.8 percent of this vast country. Landlocked between Russia and China, Mongolia has shown steady economic growth in recent years.

Our ancestors lived here in Mongolia approximately 40,000 years ago. In 1206, Genghis Khan founded the Mongol Empire which became the largest land empire in world history. Mongolia became a UN member in 1961.

Mongolia is not only well known for the history of the great Chinggis Khan, but it is also widely known for its wonderful cultural diversity and stunning natural allure. A spectacular countryside with vast open steppe, rugged mountains and abundant wildlife. Mongolia is truly one of the untouched travel destinations on earth. There are seas of empty silent steppes where you can catch only the shadows of clouds that roll over the land for miles and miles.

ULAANBAATAR THE CAPITAL

The capital of Mongolia, Ulaanbaatar city was established in 1639 and has 380 years of history. Ulaanbaatar city is situated in the Tuul river bank and lies at the foothills of Bogd Khan Mountain, a special protected area. The City is divided into 9 districts. Nearly 40 percent of the population of Mongolia lives in Ulaanbaatar city. According to statistical data 67 percent of Ulaanbaatar's population is under 35 and around 30 percent is under 16. Ulaanbaatar is transforming like other world cities with the development of new modern buildings, introduction of new scientific and technological advancements and innovations.

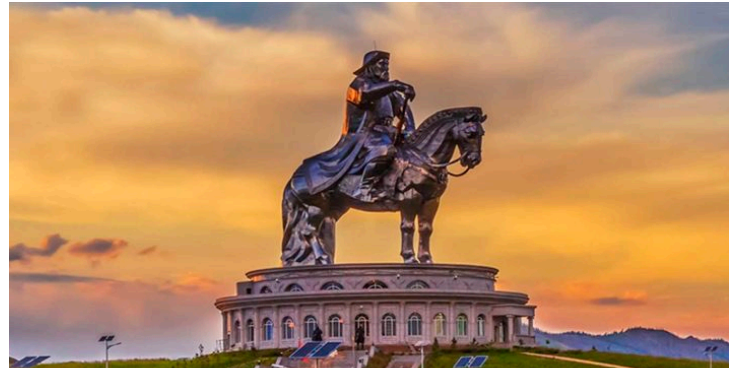

SUKHBAATAR SQUARE

Sukhbaatar square was established in 1946 and named in honor of D.Sukhbaatar, the 1921 independence movement leader. An equestrian statue is placed in the center of the square. The equestrian statue and pedestal height is 12 meters and the statue height is 4 meters. The statue represents him as standing on high ground raising his hand addressing the public. The monument is surrounded with 12 lion sculptures which are connected with 208 chain rings symbolizing the inviolability of the territorial integrity of Mongolia.

STATUE COMPLEX OF CHINGGIS KHAN

The total area is 212 hectares and the statue is built in the center of the complex. The statue is 40 meters high including the base. The round shaped base is 10 meters high with a 30 meter diameter. It facilitates a Chinggis Khan museum, exhibition hall, restaurants, a bar, and a meeting hall where souvenir shops are located.

NATIONAL HISTORY MUSEUM

The National history museum is just a walking distance from Sukhbaatar square. The museum is dedicated to preserving Mongolian history and traditional life. The museum's greatest ambition is to cherish, preserve and spread the rich cultural heritage the nomadic lifestyle which was experienced for a millennia by our ancestors, who have left an indelible mark not only on Mongolia.

GORKHI-TERELJ NATIONAL PARK

Gorkhi Terelj National Park is located 65 km northeast of Ulaanbaatar by paved road. High granite stone mountains with forest-covered northern slopes, multitudes of wildflower meadows along with the spectacular shape rocks formed by mother nature is a favorite scenery for visitors. Fast-flowing rivers and streams make the national park more beautiful.

GANDANTEGCHINLEN MONASTERY

The Gandantegchinlen Monastery is a Mongolian Buddhist monastery in the Mongolian capital of Ulaanbaatar that has been restored and revitalized since 1990.

MONGOLIAN STATE ACADEMIC THEATRE OF DRAMA

The State Central Theatre was established by resolution 50, adopted by the Bureau of Affairs of the Mongolian Government on November 12, 1931, taking into consideration the actual requirements to unite the movement of amateurs and to develop it to a new stage.

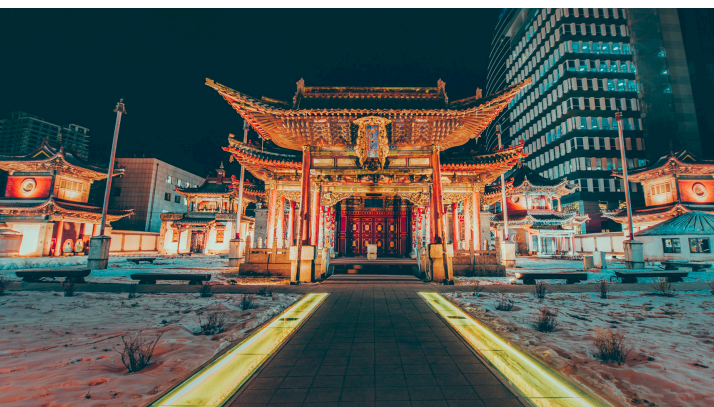

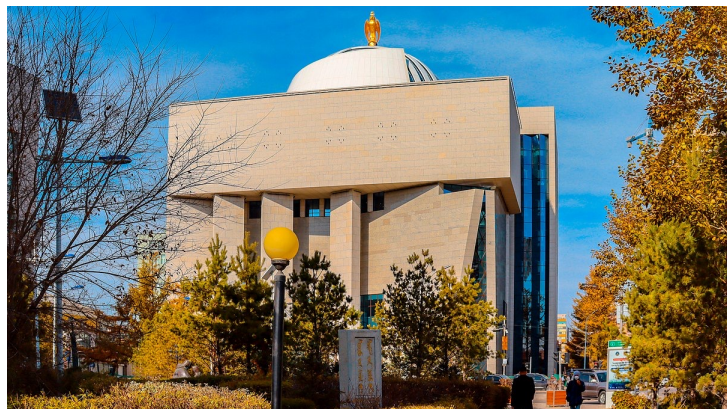

WINTER PALACE OF BOGD KHAN

The Winter Palace of Bogd Khan is located in the south of Ulaanbaatar, on the road to Zaisan. It is now a museum. The palace is the only remaining residence from the original four residences of the eighth Jebtsundamba Khutughtu, who was later proclaimed Bogd Khan, or emperor of Mongolia.

CHINGGIS KHAAN MUSEUM

The Chinggis Khan Museum is the nation's largest museum and holds a collection of over 8,300 objects relating to Great Khans of the Mongol Empire and the history of Mongolia from Xiongnu to the end of the 20th century, with a portion of the collected artifacts on display in nine exhibition halls. This royal museum is in the middle of downtown Ulaanbaatar just a short walk from Sukhbaatar Square.

CHOIJIN LAMA TEMPLE

The Choijin Lama Temple complex was built between 1904 and 1908 by the order of the eighth Javzandamba Khutagt, spiritual leader of Mongolian Buddhism (or Bogd Khan) and later head of the Bogd Khaganate in Mongolia following its independence in 1911.

ZAISAN HILL

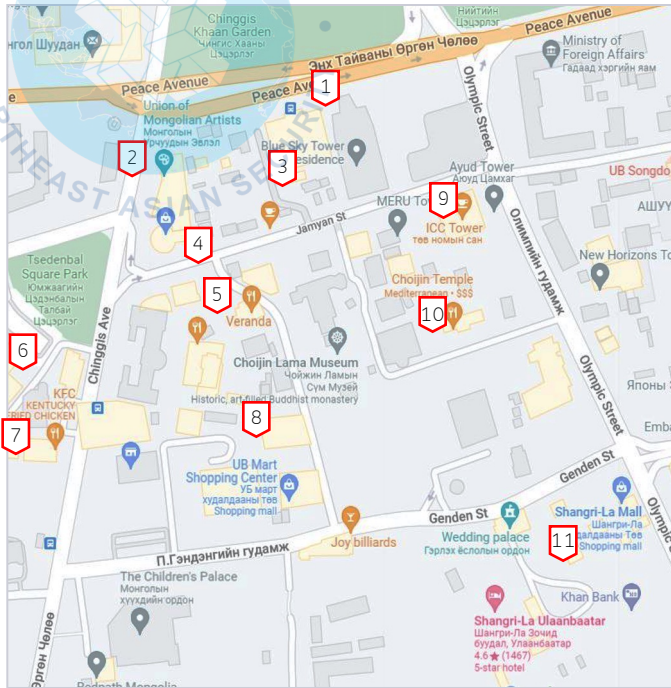

It is a high-end shopping mall, Situated by Zaisan Memorial, the nearly complete culture, and entertainment complex incorporates Mongolia's first 4D movie theater. An auditorium of 10-thousand seats, a Children's world floor, a glass bridge directly reaching the parking lot, a VIP lounge offering a panoramic view and a wedding service floor are built into the 11-storey complex.
